ABOUT

Dr. Maggs has been in active practice for 39 years. He specializes in the prevention, diagnosis, treatment, and rehabilitation of all musculoskeletal injuries. Today's musculoskeletal industry is reactive in nature, only caring for an athlete after they're injured. The Structural Fingerprint[®] Exam looks at athletes from head to toe, looking for imbalances, weaknesses and joint restrictions, and preferably, prior to injuries and degeneration. Dr. Maggs developed this nationally acclaimed program over the past 25 years. Faulty biomechanics are the underlying causes of most injuries, and never looked at by most physicians and therapists who are not trained in sports biomechanics. This means the cause of most musculoskeletal injuries is never addressed.
